Abandoning Palestine:

The end of the British Mandate and our continuing responsibility

17 & 18 May 2022
Online conference guide

Welcome from Sir Vincent Fean, Balfour Project Chair

What is the Balfour Project for?

What brings us together is a clear aim: Peace, Justice and Equal Rights in Israel/Palestine.

Mission Statement

Acknowledging Britain's historical and continuing responsibilities, through popular education and advocacy to uphold equal rights for the Israeli and Palestinian peoples. To persuade the British Government to recognise the state of Palestine alongside the state of Israel.

How you can help

The conference is free, but please consider a donation to help us keep going.

www.peoplesfundraising.com/donation/balfour-project

We also seek sponsors for our Peace Advocacy Fellowship Programme. The Balfour Project plans to appoint up to 15 Balfour Project Peace Advocacy Fellowships for the academic year 2022/23. Successful candidates are mostly post-graduates or final year undergraduates with an interest in promoting peaceful solutions to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict.

Britain ruled Palestine for over thirty years before retreating in disarray, leaving chaos, war and injustice as its legacy. The British abandoned Palestine, doing lasting harm.

What should Britain do now – civil society, Parliament, Government – to advance equal rights and uphold the law? If it is to mean anything, the rule of law must apply equally to friend and foe – whoever transgresses. That was the key message of our 2021 conference – “Israel/Palestine: in search of the rule of law”. Since then, Putin's invasion of Ukraine has highlighted the folly of tolerating breaches of international law and the double standards of the international community's response. To take just one example, Israel's illegal annexation of East Jerusalem provided Putin with a precedent for the illegal annexation of Crimea.

This conference is not just about the past. Important as it is to see how we got to here, it's more important to learn from it how to do better, advancing equal rights. In the first part, Hanan Ashrawi, Palestine's advocate, assesses Britain's role then and what it could do, now – given political will. Historian Avi Shlaim chronicles Britain's betrayal of Palestine, from Arthur Balfour in 1917 to Ernest Bevin in 1948. Eye witness Dr Ghada Karmi tells of her enforced flight from Jerusalem with her family in 1948. Balfour Project trustee John McHugo describes the legal vacuum Britain left behind, and which was a recipe for war. Britain had accepted a “sacred trust of civilisation” to assist the Palestinian people to achieve independence – and did exactly the opposite.

The second part of this conference is about what Britain can do next, and do better. Former UN human rights rapporteur Michael Lynk reminds us that Britain's unjust legacy remains, in the form of Israel's continuing use against Palestinians of the savage emergency measures Britain enacted in 1945. Former Secretary of State for International Development Rory Stewart then analyses the impact of Palestine on Britain's international standing, and what needs to change for the better. British Palestinians discuss what the society they now live in can do for the society their forebears had to leave. British Parliamentarians discuss that elusive political will to do the right thing, not just say it.

The Balfour Project charity exists to raise awareness of Britain's past in Palestine, to affirm that we have a responsibility to fulfil, and to explore what we can do today, with likeminded partners, to advance equality. Your interest and engagement are key. Thank you.

Day 1—Tuesday 17 May 2022

3.00pm

Welcome by Sir Vincent Fean

Sir Vincent Fean (Balfour Project Chair) was a member of the British Diplomatic Service (1975-2014). His last post was as Consul-General, Jerusalem (2010-14). He has also been Ambassador to Libya and High Commissioner to Malta.

Vincent advocates equal rights for Israelis and Palestinians, and British Government recognition of the state of Palestine alongside Israel on pre-June 1967 lines.

The region covered by the Mandate of Palestine. The dates on the lines are the dates the boundaries were fixed.

Day 1—Tuesday 17 May 2022

Hanan Ashrawi

Dr. Hanan Ashrawi is a distinguished Palestinian leader, legislator, activist and scholar who served as a member of the Leadership Committee and as an official spokesperson of the Palestinian delegation to the Middle East peace process, beginning with the Madrid Peace Conference of 1991. Dr. Ashrawi was appointed as the Palestinian Authority Minister of Higher Education and Research (1996), but she resigned from the post in protest at the non-implementation of reform plans in governance and peace talks (1998). Prior to that, she was Dean of the Faculty of Arts at Birzeit University, and head of its Legal Aid Committee since the mid-1970s.

Dr Hanan Ashrawi

Dr. Ashrawi was elected to the Palestinian Legislative Council representing Jerusalem (1996), and, she was re-elected for the “Third Way” bloc ticket (2006). Making history as the first woman to hold a seat in the highest executive body in Palestine, she was elected as member of the Executive Committee of the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) in 2009.

As a civil society activist, she founded MIFTAH, the Palestinian Initiative for the Promotion of Global Dialogue and Democracy (1999) and continues to serve as head of its Board of Directors. In the same year, Dr. Ashrawi founded the National Coalition for Accountability and Integrity (AMAN). Moreover, she is the founder of the Independent Commission for Human Rights (ICHR) and has served as its Commissioner since 1994.

Dr. Ashrawi serves on the advisory and international boards of several organizations, including the World Bank Middle East and North Africa (MENA); the United Nations Research Institute for Social Development (UNRISD); the International Human Rights Council; US/Middle East Project; the Palestine Institute for Public Diplomacy (PIPD); and the Holy Land Christian Ecumenical Foundation’s Know Thy Heritage Program

Dr. Ashrawi is the recipient of numerous awards from all over the world including the 2005 Mahatma Gandhi International Award for Peace and Reconciliation; the 2003 Sydney Peace Prize; the 2002 Olof Palme Prize; the 1999 International Women of Hope “Bread and Roses”; the Defender of Democracy Award – Parliamentarians for Global Action; the 50 Women of the Century; the 1996 Jane Addams International Women’s Leadership Award; the Pearl S. Buck Foundation Women’s Award; the 1994 Pio Manzu Gold Medal Peace Award; and the 1992 Marissa Bellisario International Peace Award.

She is the author of many books, articles, poems and short stories on Palestinian politics, culture and literature. Her book This Side of Peace (Simon & Schuster, 1995) earned worldwide recognition. Dr. Ashrawi received both Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) and Master of Arts (M.A.) degrees from the American University of Beirut and a Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) degree in Medieval and Comparative Literature from the University of Virginia in the United States. Moreover, she is the recipient of eleven honorary doctorates from universities in the U.S., Canada, Europe and the Arab world.

Dr Ghada Karmi

Day 1—Tuesday 17 May 2022

Eyewitness account of the Nakba Dr Ghada Karmi

Ghada Karmi is a Palestinian physician, academic and writer. Her family was forced to leave their home in Jerusalem in April 1948, and took refuge in Syria on their way to England where she grew up and was educated. She is a former research fellow and lecturer at the Institute of Arab and Islamic Studies, University of Exeter. Her writings have mostly dealt with the Palestinian-Israeli conflict; they include two memoirs, In Search of Fatima, (Verso 2002), and Return (Verso, 2015) which both deal with the Nakba and its effects.

Lord Cope

The British security presence in Palestine during the Mandate

Lord Cope

John Cope is a Conservative politician who was an MP from 1974 to 1997 and was then appointed to the House of Lords. From 1979 to 1994 he held various ministerial offices in the Governments of Margaret Thatcher and John Major, latterly as Paymaster General at the Treasury. He was later Conservative Chief Whip in the House of Lords. He has a keen interest in Palestine where his wife Djemila was born. He has chaired PalMusic UK (Friends of the Edward Said National Conservatory of Music) and played a key role in bringing the Palestine Youth Orchestra to Britain in 2016. John Cope is Patron of the British Palestine Police Association.

3.00pm

Welcome - Dr Phyllis Starkey

Dr. Starkey was Member of the House of Commons from 1997 to 2010.

Before entering Parliament, Dr. Starkey had a double career as a distinguished research scientist and as a politician in both local and national politics. She qualified as a biochemist and followed a career in medical research, leading her own research group in Oxford. She won a seat on Oxford City Council, was Chair of Finance for six years, and Council leader for three years. From 1993-1997, Dr. Starkey was the National Chair of the Local Government Information Unit, which represents over 120 Councils across the country.

Dr. Starkey has held a number of important Parliamentary posts since she was elected in 1997: Between 1999-2001 she was a member of the Modernisation of the House of Commons Select Committee; in 2002 she became PPS to Denis MacShane, the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs; in 2005, Dr. Starkey was made Chair of the Select Committee for Communities and Local Government.

She is now working as a Policy Adviser on Middle East issues.

Day 2—Wednesday 18 May 2022

Introducing Prof. Michael Lynk

Victor Kattan

Victor Kattan

Victor Kattan is a senior research fellow at the School of Law at Nottingham University, where he is undertaking a study on the prohibition of apartheid in international law in places beyond South Africa.

For many years, Victor was based at the Middle East Institute at the National University of Singapore, where he was also an Associate Fellow at the Faculty of Law. Victor is the inaugural winner of the Asian Society of International Law's Young Scholar Prize, and is the author and editor of three books, including: From Coexistence to Conquest: International Law and the Origins of the Arab-Israeli Conflict 1891-1949 (Pluto 2009) and, with the late Peter Sluglett, Violent Radical Movements in the Arab World: The Ideology and Politics of Non-State Actors (Bloomsbury 2019).

Victor has written and spoken widely about various aspects of the Israel-Palestine dispute, the laws of war, human rights, and the history of international law. He is an occasional contributing writer to the English language edition of Ha'aretz.

Prof Michael Lynk

Day 2—Wednesday 18 May 2022

Professor Michael Lynk

Michael Lynk is Associate Professor at the Faculty of Law, Western University, London, Ontario, Canada. He joined the Faculty in 1999, and has taught courses in labour, human rights, disability, constitutional and administrative law. He served as Associate Dean of the Faculty between 2008-11.

In March 2016, the United Nations Human Rights Council appointed him as Special Rapporteur for the human rights situation in the Palestinian Territory occupied since 1967 for a six-year term, recently completed. In this capacity, he delivered regular reports to the UN General Assembly and the Human Rights Council on human rights trends in the OPT.

He has served as a labour arbitrator since 2000. Since 2007, he has been a vice-chair and arbitrator with the Ontario Grievance Settlement Board.

Day 2—Wednesday 18 May 2022

Monica Spooner

What is the Balfour Project?

The Balfour Project was born when Monica Spooner, a retired doctor in Edinburgh, visited Israel and Palestine in 2008 with her husband, Roger.

‘I saw the achievement of a Jewish homeland, but discerned great anxiety and fear,’ she recalls. ‘I saw the pain of the Palestinians, and discovered their anger towards Britain. They felt betrayed by the 1917 Balfour Declaration, in which the British Government promised support for a homeland for Jews in Palestine so long as this did not prejudice the rights of the existing inhabitants, 90% of whom were Arab at that time.

‘Now that homeland is a reality. But the Palestinians have no freedom. ‘Studying this history, I realised that we British acted with duplicity, making several contradictory promises, and finally washed our hands of Palestine, leaving the Jews and the Palestinians to an undeclared war for domination. We in Britain are not taught these shameful episodes. I met others who felt similarly, and together we launched the Balfour Project. We have been joined by academics, politicians, clergy and citizens from all parts of the UK.

‘We are discovering a vast network of people throughout the country who are equally committed to peace and justice for both Palestine and Israel.’
